‘NOMINATIONS NOW BEING ACCEPTED BY JOINT BOARD’

Nominations for the 2018 ‘Devils Lake Basin Water Stewardship Award’ are being accepted by the Devils Lake Basin Joint Water Resource Board until Wednesday, October 31st.

The award was established in December of 2002 to recognize individuals, groups, organizations and projects that have demonstrated a commitment to improving the quality of life for the Devils Lake Basin community through their efforts to improve land and water stewardship in the Devils Lake Basin.

Previous awards were Dry Lake-Grand Harbor Watershed Management project (’04), Ernie Hagen and the Minnewaukan School ‘OWLS’ project (’05), Nikolaisen WPA project (’06), the Greater Ramsey Water District (’07), Russell L. Dushinske (’08) and Co-Winners Mike Connor and Curt Hofstad (’09), New City – Zion Township Creek Restoration Project (’10), Lynn Schlueter of the ND Game & Fish Department for the Loma Carp Barrier Project (’11) Joe Belford for his many years of distinguished service fighting the Devils Lake flooding as a Ramsey County Commissioner(’12) and Huck Kurger for his contribution to the education of the Devils Lake flooding situation through his aerial photographs (’14), 2016 recipients Paul Becker for his 20+ Years as a Ramsey County Water Resource Board Member & Kevin Bonham a retired journalist with Forum Communications who covered the Devils Lake Basin for over 20 years, and 2017 recipient Arne Berg for his many contributions to the residents of the Devils Lake Basin first as a Ramsey County Commission during the height of the flooding and the rise of the waters within the basin and then a State Water Commissioner.

Mike Tweed, Board Chairman, stated “Nominations will be accepted from any individual, organization or governmental body in the Devils Lake Basin which includes Cavalier, Eddy, Nelson, Pierce, Ramsey, Rolette, Towner and Walsh Counties”.

Nomination information will be furnished to County Commissions, Extension Agents, Soil Conservation Districts and Water Boards in the eight counties according to Tweed. Nomination information is also available from any Board member, contacting the Joint Board office in the Ramsey County Courthouse in Devils Lake or at www.dlbasin.com.

“All nominations will be judged by an independent panel of Basin residents familiar with the four areas of the Devils Lake Basin Water Management Plan: Agriculture, Recreation, Wildlife & Fisheries and Economic Development. All of these areas play a vital role in the future of the Basin Community” Tweed added.

The award will be presented at the Annual Water Conference Award Banquet in Bismarck on Thursday, December 6th at the Ramkota Hotel.
